Chief's Message

What a week!

Gov. Inslee made a last-minute quick trip to Shoreline Fire HQ last Friday to discuss the opioid pandemic and support he is proposing for us and fire. It gave me an opportunity to put more shine on our two amazing RCR Crisis Responders, Melissa and John and the compassion and solutions they bring to those we serve, who are in crisis.

On Monday, the Center for Public Safety Management (CPSM) presented their final Accountability Report to City Council. This study was requested by Shoreline Council Member Scully (formally our mayor) as the last of a three-part promise following the George Floyd protests. I had an opportunity to respond to the report after the CPSM presentation. I would be more than happy to talk further to anyone interested about this report which is attached for you to review if you so choose.

Tuesday was the 2024 Edwin T. Pratt Day in Shoreline! Sgt. Fitchett organized our event this year partnering with the City of Shoreline and Shoreline Community College. City Manager Ellington provided significant support in the way of fund matching outside of our budget. Our goal has always been to honor and remember Mr. Pratt and continue his message of hope. This year's event was four times what we organized last year, and I am confident it will grow even larger next year and beyond! Dahlia gifted the event with her artist talent. Please take a look at the beautiful event program she created. Kris was our head photographer working late into the evening with Sgt. Fitchett and I. King 5 News covered the event. I asked them to keep the focus on our presenters, and they did a beautiful job. The news coverage of the event is linked below.

THANK YOU once again to each and every one of you who assisted in the homicide investigation that started Monday night and continued to safe apprehension of our suspect Tuesday afternoon.

I could not be more honored to serve as your Shoreline Chief. Thank you for your dedicated service.

Lasting Impressions

I want to thank Deputy Swanson for sharing the below email. It took just a moment to learn Sgt. Mandella was our partner who left a great impression with leadership at Einstein Middle School during their December Anne Frank event. The small moments matter.

Station 51 Gym Open for Use

Thanks to Deputy Boyer's efforts, you may now use Station 51's gym.

The few caveats are that we must be above minimums, you must have your radio with you, and you must abide by the rules below set forth by their command staff.

There are bedrooms right above the gym, so noise will be the biggest potential issue.

Guidelines for Working Out at Station 51 Gym

- 1. Check in with the crew during day hours.
- 2. Workout times for outside guests: 1000-1500 and 1800-2300.
- 3. No dropping large weights or loud music.
- 4. Wipe down machines when finished working out.
- 5. Put weights back in an organized fashion.
- 6. Make sure music and lights are off when finished with your workout.
